JAPS TO ISSUE ULTIMATUM

HANE PLEADS NOT GUILTY IN TOLEDO COURT

U. S. Commissioner Sets Bond for Former Bank Cashier at $35,000.

HEARING TO BE MARCH 10

Marion Man Turned Over to Federal Officers After Arrest in Columbus.

H. W. "Bud" Hane was placed under $35,000 bond pending a preliminary hearing when he pleaded not guilty to a charge of embezzlement when arraigned before United States Commissioner John C. Budd at Toledo this morning, the International News Service said. Hane is alleged to have embezzled $90,000 from the Marion National bank of which he was formerly cashier.

March 10 was tentatively set for his preliminary hearing before U. S. Commissioner Budd.

Hane was returned to jail after entering the plea. The heavy bond was asked by Lee Murlin, U. S. district attorney, who issued the warrant for Hane's arrest.

In the meantime the case is expected to go before the federal grand jury which meets in Toledo Wednesday.

Makes Statement Here

Hane was taken to Toledo late yesterday afternoon from the county jail by Silas B. Overmyer and Al Yeager, deputy United States marshals. He spent last night in the Lucas county jail, and this morning appeared before the commissioner with John Bebout, Toledo attorney, who will be associate counsel with J. Malcolm Strelitz, Hane's attorney.

Two secret service men took a detailed statement from Hane at the county jail yesterday, talking with him more than four hours. Hane is said to have admitted taking funds from the bank, and to have described his manipulations of the bank's funds in detail.

Virtually all of the $90,000 allegedly taken from the bank was lost in the stock market, losses beginning with the market crash in 1929, it was learned. The stock market also took Hane's personal property, he is quoted as saying.

Bond Not Raised

Bond for Hane's release had not been raised at noon today.

The $90,000 Hane admitted taking from the bank represents between nine and 10 per cent. of the institution's total deposits of approximately $970,000. The bank closed last December 14 following Hane's sudden disappearance.

GARNER BOOM TAKES ON NATIONAL ASPECT

However, Texan Declines To Aid Move, Confining Self to Speaker's Duties.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17—The Garner boom loomed as a national drive today, but the Texan stuck to his job as speaker of the house, refusing to take part in a movement to put him in the White House.

Formally, the two senators from Texas, Sheppard and Connally, offered him as a Democratic presidential candidate, not as a "favorite son" but as a statesman supremely qualified in national affairs. They promised him the solid Texas vote in the national convention and forecast wide support.

Garner said immediately he had known nothing of the statement beforehand, emphasized he had no authorized spokesman and would not talk about presidential prospects at all.

"My job is speaker of the house and I am confining myself solely to the job of running this house," he said.

Gunmen Force Cab Driver To Aid in Holdups

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 17 — Ohio penitentiary records were examined today for possible identification of two robbers who kidnaped a Columbus taxi cab driver late yesterday and forced him to drive them to Toledo while they committed two hold-ups enroute.

The driver, James King, put Toledo police on the trail of the robbers last night, but the men escaped after being traced to a hotel.

King said the conversation of his abductors indicated they recently had been prisoners in the penitentiary and that they came from Cincinnati.

The robber pair engaged King's taxi in front of the Chittenden hotel at Columbus and later produced guns to force him to drive them to Toledo.

They held up a gasoline station near Portage, circled through that town and then repassed the place while townsfolks were looking for them. At Toledo they robbed another filling station, getting about $40 in the two robberies.

Hoover Proposes Federal Changes To Save Millions

Sends Special Message Asking Support of Congress in Government Departments To Provide Efficiency and End Overlapping.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17—Asking support for a wholesale reorganization of the government, President Hoover today dispatched a special message to congress recommending the creation of four new federal offices.

He requested, simultaneously, the major alteration and changing in title of four other federal departments. Under the eight new and altered divisions he would consolidate present overlapping activities in an effort to subtract "millions of dollars annually" from the tax burden.

Authority also was asked for the chief executive to transfer and consolidate executive and administrative groups merely through the issuance of executive orders, each to lie before congress for 60 days before becoming effective.

Cites Need of Economy

"In the present crisis," the President declared, "the absolute necessity for the most drastic economy makes the problem of governmental reorganization one of paramount importance."

Here are the four new posts he would have congress create.

POLICE SEARCH FOR DRIVER

Hit-Skip Motorist Flees Scene After Striking Man and Wife.

WOMAN'S LEG IS BROKEN

License Number of Machine Given Officers by Witness to Accident.

Police today were looking for a hit-skip driver who last night struck Mrs. Harry Dorfe of 384 east Farming street at the intersection of north Main and George street, breaking her left leg and knocking out several teeth. She is in the City hospital.

According to Mr. Dorfe the car struck his wife after it hit him, throwing him to the street. The accident occurred about 9:30 p. m. at the intersection of north Main and George streets. Mr. and Mrs. Dorfe were walking across Main street at the intersection.

Dorfe said he saw the car approaching from the south on Main street after he and Mrs. Dorfe had taken a few steps from the curb. The car suddenly changed its course, he said, coming directly toward them. Before they could step back, the fender of the car struck him throwing him to the street. As he got to his feet he discovered Mrs. Dorfe lying on the street. The driver of the machine did not slacken speed but turned west on George, Dorfe said.

The driver of another machine who followed the car furnished the police with the license number. License on the car, according to the police, were issued to W. Sifritt of Waples avenue. Sifritt said today he was not driving the car at the time and was unable to say who the driver was.

FRANCE SEEKS MAN FOR PREMIER'S POST

Unsettled World Affairs Causes President To Speed Forming of Ministry.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Feb. 17—President Paul Doumer early today took up the task of finding a new premier of France, to replace Premier Pierre Laval, whose government resigned yesterday after it was defeated in the senate on an issue of confidence.

The president's conferences were hurried because of the situation prevailing in international affairs. The president was expected to offer the premiership to somebody by tonight, permitting the new government to take office early next week.

Laval's cabinet held over during the interim.

The name of Joseph Paul-Boncour, a senator and principal member of the French disarmament delegation at Geneva, was most prominently mentioned

Gatt was slain by Joseph Svara, a gasoline station attendant. Holding a wrench in his pocket to look like a revolver Gatt compelled Svara to yield his money.

Young 'Cowboy' Facing Horse Theft Charge

Special to The Star

GALION, O., Feb. 17—Gilbert McElroy, 17-year-old Mansfield youth, took the advice of "Go West, young man! Go West!" too literally.

McElroy was returned to the county jail at Mansfield this morning charged with "going west" with another man's horse.

Dressed in a cowboy outfit, the Mansfield youth got as far west as Galion when he was arrested by Chief of Police Frank Cook.

He told authorities conflicting stories about his activities. He said he paid Jack Sherman of north of Mansfield $12 for the horse. Sherman, however, insisted that the horse as well as a sheep skin coat and a pair of leather boots that McElroy was wearing were stolen.

McElroy also said he was going to Kentucky where he has a wife and child living. Authorities were inclined to discredit this part of his story.

BANK BANDIT GANG TRAPPED IN CELLAR

Five Pennsylvania Robbers Caught, $5,000 Loot Recovered After Battle.

By The Associated Press

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 17—A Pistol battle in a dark cellar today had brought the capture of five men who were dividing $5,000 taken a few hours previously in a hold-up of the Citizens' Building & Loan association in Shenandoah.

One of the prisoners, John Williams, 17, was taken to a hospital with bullet wounds in his leg.

Authorities learned of the basement rendezvous during their search for robbers who held up the proprietor and patrons at Castle Inn, Sunday night. A policeman was posted in the room.

The five entered and began to divide the cash without noticing him.

On a signal, 14 other policemen burst in. Williams was shot three times in firing that followed. Most of the money taken in the Shenandoah holdup, police said, was found on the cellar floor.

Kidnap Story Checked.

By The Associated Press

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 16—Without explanation, state police have announced they intend to check "very carefully" Harry H. Blagden's story that he was kidnaped here last Thursday night. Their announcement revealed that a trooper had flown to Cleveland, where Blagden turned up late Monday night, to remain with the wealthy sportsman until he was ready to return here.

BILL TO AID CREDIT NEAR FINAL ACTION

Senate Set for Speedy Approval of Proposal To Enliven Business.

THEN GOES TO HOOVER

Expected To Release Billions in Frozen Credits and Increase Active Gold.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 — The "good times" credit expansion bill is on its way through the senate with a dominant bi-partisan majority ready to send it to the White House.

Responding to a plea of urgency by Senator Glass Democrat of Virginia, the senate unanimously made the emergency legislation the order of business today.

Billions of dollars in frozen credits stand to be released, together with redistribution of $750,000,000 in gold not now working as reserve for currency.

With differences on language all worked out, those in charge were hopeful of adoption by the senate before nightfall. This would be a record, however, for a bill of this magnitude.

NEW RELIEF BILL UP

Unemployment Aid Plan Before Senate After One Is Defeated.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 — With the senate on record against federal donations of unemployment relief, Democratic members today renewed proposals for aid through loans to the states.

The $750,000,000 LaFollette-Costigan direct relief bill was defeated decisively late last night, 48 to 35, with party lines split in two.

The Democrats immediately introduced their $750,000,000 bill for loans instead of gifts, a proposal previously rejected as a substitute for the LaFollette-Costigan measure. To succeed they must win over the Independent Republicans who joined administration forces to defeat the substitute.

Senators Black Democrat of Alabama, and Bulkley Democrat of Ohio, offered the fresh bill in the hope of uniting those in favor of some form of relief, but hitherto unable to agree on the method.

Cincinnati Physicians in Mishap Near Cardington; One in City Hospital.

Four Cincinnati doctors figured in an automobile accident near Cardington late yesterday afternoon, that resulted in serious injuries for one member of the party.

Dr. J. L. DeCourcy, Dr. Lee Renneker and Dr. Louis Feld, other members of the party escaped injury. They were enroute to the Crile clinic at Cleveland, but abandoned their trip after the accident.

The car driven by Dr. DeCourcy, skidded from the road and turned over in a ditch a mile and a half north of Cardington about 6 p.m. Dr. Renneker was brought to City hospital, and the other three members of the party stayed overnight at Hotel Harding.

Dr. A. F. Renneker is anesthetist for Dr. DeCourcy, a surgeon.

MASCHKE MAN MEETS DEFEAT

Cleveland Mayoralty Result Seen as Blow to Political Machine.

VOTE TOTAL RUNS HIGH

Miller Wins Over Morgan, Former City Manager, by Nearly 8,000 Votes.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 17—After a 17-year Republican regime, Cleveland today flew a Democratic flag over the door of its highest office.

Although Republicans won a majority of its council seats in November, Cleveland yesterday elected a Democrat for mayor.

He is Ray T. Miller, 39, a former Notre Dame football player, who was opposed by former City Manager Daniel E. Morgan, a Republican.

Miller, now Cuyahoga county prosecutor, received 102,632 votes to Morgan's 94,929. Peter Witt, independent Democrat, eliminated in the primary, received 1,263 votes from citizens who wrote his name on their ballots.

Severe Blow to Maschke

It was one of the greatest outpourings of votes in the city's history, and was considered a serious defeat for the political machine of Maurice Maschke, Republican national committeeman.

Maschke's organization gave Morgan full support. Miller in turn devoted most of his attacks to the machine behind Morgan, rather than to the candidate himself. He accused the Republican organization of police corruption, inefficiency, and "too much politics." Morgan campaigned on a platform promising his major efforts to unemployment relief and improvement of housing conditions.

The election was accompanied by one shooting, numerous fights, and countless minor conflicts, though uniformed and special police aided Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown and 30 state election inspectors in supervising the balloting.

First in Eight Years

Miller will be Cleveland's first mayor in eight years, during which city managership prevailed. As mayor he faces a complex array of problems, chief among them the 1932 municipal budget, with its $2,000,000 deficit.

WILL GIVE CHINESE "ANOTHER CHANCE" TO LEAVE SHANGHAI

Both Sides Renew Efforts Toward Peace as Japs Hold Off "Big Drive"; Expected To Include Giant Aerial Attack.

BRITISH BLUEJACKETS KILLED BY SHELLS

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Thursday, Feb. 18 — Shaken by the guns which had bombarded Chapei all night, Shanghai was quiet early this morning as cannonading came to an end.

More artillery was being brought up to the lines of Chapei and Woosung but there was no concrete evidence that the expected Japanese offensive was ready to begin.

On the contrary, both sides had renewed their efforts to bring an end to the fighting. The Japanese command indicated they would give ample warning before launching the thunderbolt, and leading Chinese officials were trying to agree on a basis for peace.

Leaders in Conference

Until last night Wellington Koo, T. V. Soong and other outstanding Chinese leaders were in conference but they had nothing to say. The American, British and French ministers, who took a hand in the negotiations last week, said they would not go back to Nanking until Saturday or Sunday.

Mayor Wu Teh-Chen said China was eager for an honorable, permanent peace, "but every indication points to the determination of the Japanese militarists to aggravate the situation by extending the invasion."

Two British sailors, put ashore with a landing party from the cruiser Suffolk, died yesterday of wounds inflicted when shells from the Chapei front burst on the Whangpoo docks where they were on patrol. Police said 45 shells had fallen in the settlement during the day, killing five Chinese and wounding seventeen.

Artillery Duel Yesterday

Both Japanese and Chinese guns boomed away yesterday in an earth shaking duel, and the set-to was followed last night by an announcement from Japanese headquarters that the Chinese would "be given one more chance" to withdraw voluntarily from the Shanghai area.

In the meantime thousands of Japanese soldiers worked furiously at assembling the greatest ... Armada on Chinese soil. Already 100 planes are at hand and every transport brought more.

Observers expressed belief that the big offensive—when it comes—will bring the greatest aerial battle since the World war.

At the airdromes there was extraordinary activity during the day. Mechanics hustled about assembling planes brought from transports by trucks. At least 1,000 soldiers swarmed over an auxiliary plot near the main airdrome smoothing it down and preparing runways.

There were planes of all types on view. Nearly half of the fleet was made up of bombers, all heavily loaded with explosives.

Fight Along Wide Front

The artillery duel early today was followed by sharp fighting on a wide front.

A number of shells fell in the area patrolled by United States marines in the International Settlement.

TOKYO, Feb. 17—The Japanese government authorized the issuance of an ultimatum to the Chinese at Shanghai today, threatening to drive the Chinese army away by force unless it withdraws voluntarily.

At the same time, the government received official advices that Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson was preparing to protest formally against the landing of Japanese soldiers in the International settlement at Shanghai.

The authorization to present the ultimatum was given to Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese minister to China and to army and navy commanders. The Chinese were to be ordered to retire 20 kilometers (about 12½ miles) from the city. Between the presentation of the ultimatum and the Chinese reply, it was pointed out there probably would be an opportunity for negotiations. Shigemitsu was told to use his own discretion in fixing the time limit.

Plans Prepared for New State

By The Associated Press

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Feb. 17—Chao Hsin-Po, mayor of Mukden and one of Japan's staunchest friends in Manchuria, was charged today with the task of drawing up a proclamation for a new Manchurian-Mongolian state, which is expected to be announced tomorrow.

Reliable reports said five fundamental principles will be embodied in the constitution—that sovereignty shall rest with the people, that the state shall be autonomous or self-governed, and that there shall be equality of the races, cooperation among all racial elements, and maintenance of the "open door" for the commerce of all nations.

MOVE TO SELL GARBAGE DEPT.

Service Director Advertises for Bids on City Department Equipment.

The second step in the sale of the city garbage collection department, was taken today when a notice advertising for bidders for the department was published for the first time by Service Director E. O. Uncapher.

The first step in the sale of the department was taken by city council at its meeting on Feb. 8 when a resolution authorizing the service director to advertise for bids was passed.

A desire on the part of the city to get out of private business and a belief that more efficient service could be given by a private concern, together with the knowledge that it would be impossible for the city to purchase new equipment, were given by the service director as the reason for the sale of the department.

The resolution as passed by council provided for the sale of the department by April 1, the end of the present quarter.

Three things the new company will be required to comply with, the service director said today, will be the present rates, a continuation of a service as good as that now being carried out by the city, that none but Marion men be employed and that as far as possible all material be purchased in Marion.

RETIRED MAIL CARRIER IS VET OF TWO WARS

APPROXIMATELY 8,000 trips averaging 240,000 miles during his 26 years as a rural mail carrier in the service of Uncle Sam is the record of John E. Dutton, retired mail carrier living at Agosta. He also served as a teacher in the schools of the county for a period of nine years and saw service in both the Spanish American and World wars. His retirement from service in the postal department of the government took place Oct. 31 last year, rounding out a period of 26 years service to the day.

Mr. Dutton, who is 55 years of age, was born in Marion county and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Dutton of Agosta. He was appointed carrier out of the Agosta postoffice on Route No. 2, Oct. 2, 1905, and his first route covered a trip of 24 miles which he made with a horse-drawn wagon. During the period of his service the route was extended to 36 miles which for the most part was covered by motor transportation. Mr. Dutton was the second rural carrier in the county to use an automobile for delivery purposes.

His military career began with his enlistment in Company G, Fourth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, which took him to Porto Rico. He served as a lieutenant during the World war at Fort Beniamin Harrison and Camp Dodge, Ia.

With former Mayor G. V. Paschall he helped organize the militia unit in Marion in 1919 and served with the organization as a lieutenant six years. He served as an officer in the company during the Marion centennial celebration and also served as a special guard commander during the funeral of the late President Harding. He is a member of Clarence Phillippi Post No. 101, American Legion at LaRue and Marion Camp, United Spanish War Veterans in Marion. The Stars Say—

For Thursday, Feb. 18.

THE astral influences bearing rule upon the affairs of this day seem to be generally adverse, although not in a major degree. There is likely to be all sorts of trivial vexations, annoyance and perplexities in business as well as in personal contacts. Be careful in signing all writings, letters and contracts and be on guard against vexing superiors or employers. Also be cautious with strangers.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year calling for patience and self-reliance, as there may be many trivial annoyances, vexations and perplexities to wisely manage. Be particular in signing all writings and do not run counter to employers or those in authority. Be on guard with strangers. Withal there may be something pleasant in a small way financially or socially. A child born on this day may have a rather contradictory nature, with certain traits making for popularity, but also it may be pleasure loving, impulsive, vexatious and variable. It should be given firm discipline and proper education in early youth.

WHY DOES EVERYBODY RELY ON Listerine WHEN AN EPIDEMIC HITS TOWN?

. . . they know THEY CAN DEPEND ON ITS RESULTS . . .
. . . AND SO DOES THE DOCTOR

It takes a time of real danger to establish the value of a mouthwash, in the eyes of the public.

And surveys show that when a town is hit by an epidemic, whether of cold, sore throat, or influenza, the sales of questionable mouthwashes go down, while those of Listerine go up.

In other words, people lose faith in new, untried mouthwashes when health is involved and real germ-killing action in an antiseptic is vital. They dare not gamble.

Tested by Experts

For your own protection, always use Listerine, the safe antiseptic. Behind it lie fifty years of use in the hands of bacteriologists, nurses, physicians, surgeons, dentists, and the public. Its action is known. Its results can be definitely predicted. There is no uncertainty about either its germicidal power or its safety.

Kills germs in fastest time

Listerine, used full strength, kills germs in the fastest time that can be measured. It reduces bacteria in the mouth 98%. Any claims of faster killing time or greater reduction power are without fact.

Listerine's germicidal action, as well as its safety, is corroborated by The Lancet of London, foremost medical journal of the world. No higher compliment can be paid.

For Colds—certain results

In the prevention and treatment of the common cold, Listerine, under tests, shows results approached by no other mouthwash.

For example: When gargled twice a day, it showed power to reduce the number of colds at least 50%, often 66%.

Safety is most important

Such results are made possible because Listerine is safe in action. That is, it does not injure the tissue while killing germs.

Mouthwashes so harsh they must be diluted before they dare be used, may and often do irritate the tissue. Instead of driving germs out, they help them to gain entrance to the body through the irritation they set up.

Don't take a chance

For that reason we say to you—choose your mouthwash carefully. Unless you do, you may encourage infection instead of fighting it. Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Choose mouthwashes carefully
Some watered
Others dangerous

Of 203 mouthwashes submitted to laboratory examination, 94 were non-antiseptic, 107 could not kill germs in three minutes, 143 could not kill in one minute. Others were so harsh they were dangerous to tissue. Dozens had no deodorant effect whatever.

construct and sometimes operate all federal projects except those of the army and navy

An assistant secretary for public health to head all such federal work.

An assistant secretary for merchant marine, drawing into the commerce department all marine shipping regulation, including inland waterway.

An assistant secretary for conservation to combine now scattered efforts.

Posts which Mr. Hoover would alter include:

A personnel administrator, instead of chairman of the civil service commission, to combine all personnel agencies of the government.

An assistant secretary for education, consolidating the office of education, its commissioner and other educational activities

An assistant secretary for agricultural research, broadening the title of the present assistant secretary.

An assistant secretary for agricultural economics, giving higher title to the present director.

Classed As Good Investment

The President informed congress the salaries of these officials would cost an additional $40,000 a year but that the "saving in the cost of the administration would be many times this sum."

No mention was made by Mr. Hoover of moves now afoot on Capitol Hill to consolidate the army and navy into a single department. He is known to be opposed to such a step, desiring to retain the present 10 major executive departments as a framework

Recalling that other Presidents had requested general consolidations without major results, the President warned congress that such steps in the past had been "a signal for the mobilization of opposition from all quarters," especially within the departments affected.

Nevertheless, he laid down the principle that there must be reorganization of activities under the heads of "major purposes," and with administrative and legislative functions having "single-headed responsibility."

At the same time he recommended a separate legislative reorganization of policy in two fields—reclamation and conservation of the western ranges.

Reclamation, he said, should be broadened to include conservation of water by storage in all parts of the country. Such projects as Boulder Dam, Grand Coulie on the Columbia river, the dam of the Umatilla and Cove Creek dam at Muscle Shoals, he said, should go forward when there is need for such service and when contracts can be made to amortize the cost of constructoin to the government

Former Sheriff Confesses Indiana Bank Robberies

By The Associated Press

PORTLAND, Ind Feb. 17 Ira Barton, a plot to escape thwarted confessed last night that he aided in three bank robberies in Blackford county while he was sheriff there last year.

His statement halted his trial for conspiracy to rob the First State bank of Dunkirk last Christmas eve He continued to deny a part in that holdup. On his way back to jail Barton drew a blackjack, slugged Deputy Sheriff Tandy Ferguson and fled down an alley. A state policeman recaptured him without a struggle.

Placed in solitary confinement, the former sheriff decided to confess He admitted complicity in two robberies of the Citizens State Bank at Hartford City, seat of Blackford county, on July 8 and Oct 2, and holdup of the First National bank at Montpelier, Nov. 25

The charge for the Dunkirk robbery resulted from accusations by three men, captured by vigilantes, that Barton had promised to "clear the town" for them.

Barton said he became involved with the bank robbers through the necessity of meeting heavy domestic expenses.

300 MEN WORKING ON DIRIGIBLE BASE

33 Buildings Are Included in Plans for Giant Western Project.

By International News Service

SUNNYVALE, Calif On the table like 1,000-acre area surrounded by low, sheltering hills 300 workmen are at work erecting a Spanish village, which, before the spring of 1933 has passed, will be the center of naval dirigible activities on the Pacific coast

Thirty three buildings, reminiscent of the days of the Dons' "castles in an air village," will rise from the level plain to house the 500 naval officers and enlisted men who will carry on the activities of the $5,000,000 dirigible base

Over them all will loom the gigantic hangar largest building in the world without interior supports which will house the world's largest dirigibles, the Akron and her sister ship still under construction and as yet unnamed - the ZRS 5

Eighteen stories tall, more than a fifth of a mile long, the huge "stable" will loom as a landmark visible for miles

Contracts totaling nearly $2,000,000 already have been awarded Piles numbering into the thousands have been driven, and the work is being pushed forward at top speed

Soon the breath-taking job of erecting the steel frame of the hangar will begin and the "air village" will take form rapidly on the now almost barren valley lands

Most of the pictures were in color and devoted to the expeditions, with the exception of several taken of the people of the country and a visit to a monastery hitherto closed to the white man

The thrill spot in the pictures was Noel's camera catching the disappearance of Mallory and Irvine within 800 feet of the top of the world. These two men at the last expedition have never been heard of since they disappeared, probably into one of the deep crevasses, Noel said.

The pictures were among the most unusual ever filmed, and shown here, equalling any of the travel pictures shown in the theaters in recent months

On Feb. 25 the course will close with a lecture by Fred G. Bale, former prosecutor in the Juvenile Court at Columbus.

It Costs Money To Speed.

That the attainment of high speed in the employment of any form of transportation is expensive is well known, as is also the fact that the expense in attaining high speeds increases out of all proportion with the increased speed attained.

This has been notably demonstrated in the operation of ocean liners, the records of which show that each added knot of speed costs far more than the knot below it, the cost mounting by mighty leaps when the higher speeds are attained. Thus it is that a fifteen-knot vessel can be operated at a knot cost far below a twenty-knot liner and the latter at but a fraction of the cost of a liner making from twenty-five to twenty-eight knots.

It has been known, too, that the cost of high automobile speed is excessive compared with the extra speed attained, but until recently the exact ratio of the increased cost of automobile operation to the speed attained had not been given careful demonstration.

As the result of a series of experiments conducted by the Chicago Motor club, it has been demonstrated that a speed of a mile a minute in an automobile is between four and five times as expensive as a speed of from forty to forty-five miles an hour, the latter speed being that at which the average driver operates his car on the open highway.

The experiments showed that, in addition to the added wear and tear on an automobile resulting from the higher speeds, there is greatly increased expense in the matters of tires, gas and oil. The wear on tires was found to be twice as much at a speed of fifty miles an hour as at forty; that the gas consumption at fifty-five is one-fourth more than at thirty and that the oil consumption at fifty-five miles an hour is seven times greater than it is at thirty. From all of which it may be seen that the driver who "steps on the gas" just for the sake of going without any particular place to which to go is burning up money out of all proportion to the motorist who drives at a rate of speed well within reason.

If It Means Anything.

The League of Nations officially recognizes that open warfare is a fact in Shanghai and discreetly reflects a tendency to believe that Japan is the aggressor. The league personnel, equipped with a vast deal of machinery to settle the world's disputes, is in the same position as a novice turned loose in a chemical laboratory. Extreme discretion is necessary.

There is no doubt that this as yet untried organization of nations is doing its best, still its advocates can find no cheer in the realization that the United States, whose support they want at any price, is watching its actions in the Sino-Japanese conflict with a critical eye. The league is uncertain. It doesn't know what it can do; it suspects that, with the strong international player on this side of the Atlantic refusing to join in the game, it can do nothing but send notes and make gestures.

The assets of membership which have been held up to American eyes are only slightly less frozen in the present instance than the talked about financial assets. Great Britain, France, Italy their support of the league has been a powerful argument to force the United States into joining. But with all their prestige and power grouped under one general heading, they are unable, nevertheless, to carry out the purpose they declared so nobly at the close of the World war to settle international difficulties by peaceful methods.

The League of Nations has been pre-judged by public opinion freely during the last decade and more. Its case now is in court. It can make or break itself, so far as its present structure is concerned, by its handling of the difficulties between Japan and China. Failure will not mean necessarily that its ideals are faulty, but failure undoubtedly will reflect discredit on its means of translating these ideals into facts.

Accidents to employes of the Pennsylvania railroad were reduced twenty-seven per cent. last year compared with the record of 1930 and seventy-six per cent. compared with that of five years ago. This seems to be going in the direction of a safety mark.

France is again without a cabinet, Laval and his fellow-ministers having resigned following a senate vote of lack of confidence. But then, the situation is not one new to France. A goodly proportion of the time she has had to struggle along without a ministry.

Cargo boats carrying guns, munitions and chemicals valued at $25,000,000 and consigned to Japan are enroute from Britain to the China sea, where they will be met by Nipponese warships. Another illustration of the manner in which European nations are exerting themselves in the cause of world peace!

Don't Forget Mr. Garner.

Ohio doesn't hear much about John Nance Garner, representative of the Fifteenth district down in Texas, and lately the efficient speaker of the Democrat-organized house. The state has its own favorite sons to think about and to praise in stirring words.

Uvalde's greatest citizen is making a mark in the uncertain political world whether Ohio is hearing about it or not—from obscure representative who never said anything to compromise presidential candidate placed ahead of Newton D. Baker in a little more than two months can't be laughed off.

Mr. Garner holds the most powerful political office in Democratic control. He is a straightforward man of simple tastes and rugged appearance. He enjoys the best "press" of any Washington politician, Democrat or Republican. He never has been in the position to get himself committed on very many of the issues voters consider important. He is, in short, a ready-made candidate who fortunately happens to be doing an obviously good job of controlling the evenly-divided house of representatives.

Like Mr. Baker, however, Mr. Garner has not leaped at the tempting chance dangled before him. His Democratic colleagues have been doing the work; lately they have started a movement to elect delegates favorable to his candidacy wherever possible. Not being satisfied with his rank as a Texas favorite son, they seek to make him a favorite son adopted elsewhere. It is not wise to forget Mr. Garner.

Captain John F. Milliken, of New York City, executive secretary of the Neptune association, has urged the house merchant marine committee to recommend that the taboo on the sale of liquor on American ships inside the twelve-mile limit be removed, not because the taboo prevents them from selling liquor, but because it keeps them from advertising that they do. The "experiment, noble in purpose," certainly has resulted in producing some mighty peculiar situations.

Governor A. Harry Moore, of New Jersey, by slashing the state budget $9,375,000 has cut it to $27,189,703.94, which will turn a threatened deficit of $731,282.82 into a free cash balance of $119,677.23. Among other pressing needs of the country are more A. Harry Moores in gubernatorial chairs.

The estate of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, of New York City, estimated worth half a billion dollars, has shrunk $365,000,000 to a gross value of $141,824,497 and a net value of $135,164,110, as the result of the depreciation which the stocks held by him has suffered. In fact, about the only thing held by him at the time of his death which hasn't shrunk was $1,120,234 in cash. In the face of figures such as these, it's not hard to understand why the country feels poor.

Judging by reports from the custodians of some of the biggest safety deposit boxes in the land, the people who are hoarding their money in the estimated 10,000,000 safety deposit boxes of the country aren't happy; they are worried not only over the interest their money isn't drawing, but also over their knowledge that by thus hoarding they are cutting, if not entirely eliminating, the earning power of what stocks they may own. The hoarding business has many angles, all of them inimical to the interests of those who hoard as well as to the public generally.

HARI KARI?

Editorial Opinion.

THE YELLOW PRESS.

While a minister in a local pulpit Sunday, was denouncing the Yellow Press for "glorifying murders," a professor from the department of journalism of the University of Michigan was telling another audience in Detroit that it is "a matter of dollars and cents" and that "tabloid newspapers are opiates to the masses; they help the workingman forget his troubles with stories of horror and warped sex life."

The latter statement is unfair to working men and women. The great majority of working people, as any one knows who knows them, are no fonder of "stories of horror and warped sex life" than other people are. The purveyors of such stories, with appropriate illustrations, are supported by the underworld, a borderline class inhabiting society's "No Man's Land" and a morbid fringe of the class commonly regarded as respectable, whether its members wear white collars or black collars or no collars at all. A taste for salacious, aphrodisiac reading matter is an individual perversion bearing no relationship whatever to arbitrary social or economic distinctions.

The Yellow Press poisons the minds of its dupes for money, and with the same cold-blooded avarice displayed by the thugs it glorifies, when they shoot down men and women full of cold lead for a price. They have that in common. The Yellow Press can not be preached or lectured out of the gutters it pollutes. The public will continue to get the kinds of journalism it demands. The reading public can make the Yellow Press flourish like a green bay tree—or by withdrawing its support, can cause it to shrivel up and die.—Detroit Free Press.

WORTHY THE MANTLE OF HOLMES.

When Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes surrendered to the burden of years and retired from the United States supreme court a few weeks ago a strong public demand was immediately voiced that his place be filled by an equally outstanding liberal.

President Hoover fulfils the specifications of that request in nominating the most prominent of the liberal jurists who have been mentioned—Benjamin Nathan Cardozo, the scholarly judge who far eighteen years has served on the New York court of appeals, that state's highest tribunal, and since 1927 has been its chief justice.

The president's choice is as non-partisan as any such appointment possibly can be. Judge Cardozo was first named to the court of appeals by Governor Glynn, a Democrat, to fill an unexpired term, was reappointed by Governor Whitman, a Republican, and reelected with the indorsement of both parties.

While there were others mentioned who measure up to the mantle of Holmes, one feels that none surpasses Cardozo either in legal attainments and liberal point of view.

It may possibly be argued against the confirmation of Judge Cardozo that he is from New York, which already has two men on the supreme bench, Justices Hughes and Stone. This objection is unconvincing. Judicial qualification is not a matter to be measured by geography.

Judge Cardozo should promptly be confirmed if the senate heeds the reasonable wish of the nation that the ideals of Justice Holmes be exemplified by his successor.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

NOT BOOM, BUT RECOVERY.

It is not a contribution to the public good, whenever one perceives a rift in the economic clouds, to hail it as the approach of a new "boom," as the herald of "unprecedented" prosperity. Such is the enfeebled condition of the patient today that to start feeding him on booms and dazzling prosperities is to run the danger of inducing a violent attack of nausea.

By all means let us speak of recovery and recuperation and surmounting the crisis. That means nursing a person back to health by inducing cheerful thoughts as a supplement to light diet. It is not conducive to a bright state of mind in the patient to remind him of the boom prosperity that made him what he is today. It will elicit the grim question how long the new boom may be expected to last and whether any one will be left alive when that in turn collapses.—New York Times.

Athlete's Foot, a Skin Disease.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

I am glad the authorities are seeking to simplify the terms used in medicine. There are too many which convey little meaning, to the public, certainly. Among such is "Dermatomycosis Trichophtina." These are indeed large and difficult words to pronounce.

This term merely means "ringworm," an infectious disease of the skin. The infection is caused by a parasite or fungus, called the "trichophyton fungus."

Recently there have been many articles about the so-called "athlete's foot." This affliction is really ringworm. It is merely a form of that disease involving the feet. The more familiar ringworm is most frequently seen on the scalp and face.

Ringworm of the body begins as a flat, reddish spot. This spreads, clearing up in the center, resulting in a ringed appearance. The ring represents the active sign of the disease.

The ring of inflammation is usually elevated, red and scaly. It has a sharp outer border which fades toward the center. The area within the ring is pink, or it may be the usual color of the skin.

After reaching its full size, the ringworm may remain stationary. Within a few days or weeks it disappears entirely, only to reappear elsewhere on the body.

Ringworm may occur anywhere on the body, but it is most commonly found on the scalp, face, neck, hands and forearms. Less frequently it affects the soles of the feet, or the palms of the hands. It is called athlete's foot when the infection involves the soles of the feet and the skin between the toes.

The treatment for the disease depends upon the use of a solution which will destroy the parasite. If the disease is on the surface of the skin, this destruction is accomplished without any difficulty. When it is more deep-seated, the treatment is more difficult.

In treating the simple lesions of ringworm, it is best to clean the surface first by scrubbing with green soap. Where there is marked inflammation, this should be dealt with first, and as the irritation subsides the ringworm itself can be gone after more energetically. In such cases the usual applications of lotions, like calamine lotion or boric acid lotion, or of any mild ointment, like zinc oxide, are used.

There is a variety of antiseptics used for the destruction of ringworm. They should never be used without the supervision of a physician. Many cases of ringworm are exceedingly difficult to cure and require X-ray treatment. This can only be decided upon by the physician.

Hygienic measures are important in the prevention and spread of this disease, since it is highly contagious. Athlete's foot, which is becoming more and more common, is usually spread in swimming pools, gymnasiums and other places where individuals walk about barefooted and come in contact with the germ. It is met frequently in mild climates where most of the children run about barefooted.

Attention to hygienic measures in public swimming pools and gymnasiums is lessening the danger of infection.

Low Prices in Berlin.

BY H. A. PETERS

Berlin, Feb. 17—(U.P.)—Karl Hartung, whose posing as the secretary to Princess Hermine, the wife of ex-Kaiser Wilhelm, once gained him a jail sentence, is in jail again—this time for one year on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Hartung has had a varied career. He first appeared as an adventurer in the Ruhr during the French occupation. For several years he received aid from several right-wing political organizations. His earlier sentences followed his representations that he was confidential secretary and the courier of Hermine.

In his testimony here, he stated that he also had received help from Doorn. He declared that he now had no claim on the Doorn household.

The Berlin case against Hartung was due to his activities as secretary for a Berlin author. Hartung was accused of buying quantities of cigarets on his employer's account and selling them.

Hartung also was charged with obtaining sums of money from women whom he victimized. His method was to insert personal advertisements in the newspapers stating that a "well-situated young business man desired to meet a moneyed woman—purpose, marriage." He admitted making several acquaintances in this way. The story of his aristocratic acquaintances would come later. The most he ever obtained from one woman was 1,800 marks.

Germany's three main seaports Hamburg, Bremen and Luebeck, led the country in the number of 1931 divorces per capita, thereby confirming the traditional fickleness of the sailor's love. Hamburg topped Berlin with 200.7 divorces per 100,000, against the capital's 188.7; Bremen and Luebeck registered 129.9 and 90.1 per 100,000 respectively.

In general, divorces increased over 1930. Financial difficulties attendant on the depression is blamed. Divorces among older married folk also gained, those of marriages above fifteen years' standing showing a rise of ten per cent.

The price-cutting campaign undertaken by the government, coupled with the abnormal competition of depression times here offered some lines. One men's clothing store in the worker's quarter claims a customer can outfit himself completely for less than twenty-nine marks, or just a trifle under seven dollars. This means a price cut of seventy-five per cent. in some articles. The list follows:

Shoes	1.15
Underwear	.60

Appointed Lieutenant Governors.

BY J. R. GALBRAITH

The filling of the vacancy in the office of lieutenant governor caused by the appointment of Earl Bloom to be director of commerce in Governor Vic Donahey's cabinet, was the third exercise of such authority by a governor of Ohio.

The office of lieutenant governor was created by the constitution of 1851, and William Medill, who served such office from 1852 to 1854, was the first person to hold the new office. Under the old constitution the senate elected a presiding officer, and under the old ruling he was in line for succession to the office of governor.

In 1877 when Lieutenant Governor Tom L. Young succeeded General Hayes in the governor's office, Senator H. W. Curtis, the president pro tem, presided over the senate and the question of selecting a lieutenant governor was not raised.

But in 1903, under the administration of Governor George K. Nask, Carl L. Nippert, of Cincinnati, who was lieutenant governor, tendered his resignation to the governor, to accept the office of probate judge of Hamilton county. It was doubtful in the mind of Governor Nash whether he had authority to appoint a successor to Nippert, and he referred the matter to the attorney general, who ruled that he had the right to appoint. He named Harry L. Gordon, of Cincinnati.

In 1913 Lieutenant Governor Hugh L. Nichols resigned the office to become chief justice of the state supreme court, and Governor James M. Cox, appointed W. A. Greenlund, of Cleveland, to succeed him. Until now, no other vacancy has occurred in the office.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE

New York, Feb. 17—A movie for elegantes in the upper social brackets has become a whopping success along the "Gold Coast" called the Plaza and located in the fashionable east Fifties, it is the only neighborhood cinema to flaunt an automobile starter completely garbed in gold braid.

The manager changes from afternoon attire to tuxedo after dark and the lady in the ticket cage in the same manner appears decollete. At the curb is always a line of motor cars with liveried chauffeurs and not infrequently the companionate footman. Admission is a dollar.

Programs are confined solely to pictures, current news shots, a travel short, a Mickey Mouse and a feature picture. The feature is usually one seen on Broadway a few weeks before. In the late afternoon, tea is served in a basement salon by silver-buckled butlers.

Seating capacity is around 1,200 and the last dozen rows slope upward and are for men and women who smoke. The attendance is largely those who do not care to be taped off with the disciplined rabble in the baroque temples on and adjacent to Broadway.

There are flapper debutantes, Jorgensen dowagers and the like from the mansions, apartment-houses and de luxe hotels nearby. Many have attended late dinner parties and want to kill a little time before going to night clubs. Nearly all are on speaking acquaintance.

Now and then an untouchable wanders in but as a rule is so smothered by the staff's diffidence that he sneaks out and does not come back. The amusing display of affectations is as pronounced as usual among "those who belong." Such as "Fawncy, meeting you heah," and other la de dah.

I sat behind an ermined creature, squired by a suffly-accented British lad. A news story of Queen Marie, of Roumania, was shown and the lady, so all about might hear: "Marie is such a dear. Seeing her reminds me I have not answered her last letter." My mental reply was anticipated in the next comedy, titled "Nuts."

A gallant, wearing a spurious bloom of the barber shop, swung out of a Fifty-First street sporting a bright purple Ascot tie. The Ascot, in popular thought, has been relegated to the shelf of fashiondom cluttered with celluloid collars, yet it looked extremely smart. In fact, "durn smurt."

* * *

The first Ascot I ever beheld was a vivid red, and adorned Fred Foster, who came from the city to grace the reception desk of one leading hotel, a fine figure with a middle part in wavy and prematurely silver hair. He seemed as sure of himself as a cockerel bishop and was the first man in town to have his nails done and sport a ribbon watch fob.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, Feb. 17—Senator Morris Sheppard's big annual appearance on the floor of the senate—on the occasion of prohibition's birthday—was more of an event this year perhaps than in days gone by.

This year marked the twelfth anniversary of the adoption of the eighteenth amendment, fathered by the gentle-mannered, benignly tolerant senator from Texas.

As usual, he discarded the light gray or blue gray suit he wears for more formal attire.

* * *

Sheppard's speech this year came at a time when prohibition is being subjected to severe examination "on the hill." In the senate open hearings are being conducted daily on the question.

Three committees are either at work or will shortly begin their probing. One, headed by Senator Metcalf, of Rhode Island, is looking into the proposition of legalizing four per cent beer.

A second committee expects soon to begin hearings on the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. And a third will consider a proposal for a referendum.

The little Texan had these in mind as he talked. And he expressed his opinion in terms which would seem to belie his usual mildness of manner and good humor.

* * *

His choice of words indicated his feelings:

"There will be no statutory torpedoing of the American constitution by a beer submarine. . . ."

"Let these recalcitrants be placed on notice that so far as the drys are concerned there is to be no compromise. . . ."

Usually Sheppard's prohibition anniversary speeches are confined to a recital of the benefits the country has realized under the law. He included that in his twelfth anniversary speech, too, but more.

Proud of his sobriquet "Father of the Eighteenth amendment," Sheppard traces his views on the question back to his boyhood days when he says the village in which he was born in the sandy hills of Texas was so full of saloons "every Saturday night was a shambles."

He has crusaded against intoxicants ever since.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

Another Harmouth Prom

Hope found, with a touch of chagrin, that her wealth and family position placed her above criticism or unkind gossip about her "wildness."

As a matter of fact, her reputation seemed only heightened her sensational romance. Everyone knew the entire story, and refused to ask details. Elaborations made their own excuses. And with magnificent generosity bent themselves to praising her and her folks how well understood, admired and idolized.

All of which thoroughly irritated Hope.

Because of her continual activity, she was increasingly lonely, unable to adjust herself, unable, no matter how hard she tried to forget. Even hating him, she adored. If only she could see him somehow, the more she adored, the less she hated him. The more she brooded over him, wondering how she had ever so totally misjudged him. Most of all, was she unable to find anyone to take his place.

Only Rusty Crandall remained of the steady old line. In all her broad little world, only Rusty Crandall and Judy Hunt seemed truly to care. Without Judy, and without Rusty, who was wise enough—or perhaps disillusioned enough—no longer to speak to her of love, Hope could never have seen the long Dickeyless year through.

Such a year as it was! Angel, cornered by family affairs, was forced to leave school and, hardest of all, quit Hope's crowd as a regular member. Head high, and proud, Angel commuted to a New York secretarial school—only to become transported with joy when Rusty got her a position in his firm as stenographer—no, not secretary to two or three of the lesser lights in his father's main office. It gave Rusty's family the chance for polite, kind superiority to the "nice little thing that Rusty just got a job for—at $18 a week."

But a greater shock was when Judy was firmly forced into announcing her engagement to Frisky Hall—the greatest catch of all Westchester. It brought Hope and Judy closer together, for with Hope, Judy could sit and gulp highballs that stopped the tears, while she vowed viciously that she'd never marry Frisky, that she'd keep postponing the engagement forever, that she was still seeing almost as much as ever, Tom Post, her saxophone player, who understood and would wait for her—nay, kidnap her if necessary... If only Tom would become successful as a lyric writer . . .

And then there was Goody. And Goody's engagement party, Goody's showers, Goody's shopping and Goody's' trousseau' Thanksgiving that meant nothing at all, and Christmas that meant less because it brought back memories of the meeting in Lake Placid. . . .

Perhaps the terrible sweep of these memories was responsible for a strange action on Hope's part that New Year's eve. Betty Preston, whom Hope had never liked too well, appeared at the Country Club celebration with a new, magnificent male in tow—a twenty-one-year-old sophomore at Harmouth. A boy who earned the name of "Twosome" Hubbard because of his astonishing propensities for heart-breaking.

Long and often did Hope dance with this Twosome, asking subtle and flip questions about Harmouth, asking him if he had ever met her "annulled husband," Dickey Dale.

"No" said Twosome, with a broad grin, "but I've heard enough about him to fill a library."

"Well," Hope leaned back in his arms and almost lost step with the fox trot. "Go in sometime and introduce yourself to him. And tell him I hope he graduates with honors!"

She hated herself the moment she had spoken the words. Hated herself worse, when Betty questioned her about it later, and she listened to herself prattle on and on with Betty . . .

Hated herself a million times more, when Betty came over to her house one afternoon three weeks after New Year's, carrying a letter from Twosome Hubbard, in which he reported that he had carried out Hope's suggestion with Dickey Dale, and had nearly been thrown downstairs for his trouble. Dickey had said and said ferociously, that he never wanted to hear Hope's name again!

Hope asked Betty for the letter, and kept it wondering why. Wondering how she could want to inflict such pain on herself as re-reading it, over and over, until the pages were worn and crumpled. Wondering why the tears came, when she had believed the last of her tears were shed. Wondering why she wanted to see Dickey again—if only to hurt him as badly as he had hurt her.

That was it! She wanted to hurt him! To humiliate him and make him cringe and suffer. To show him how terribly, terribly little it meant . . .

An idea in those days was an accomplished feat with Hope. Quite subtly she favored Betty Preston, cultivating her closest friendship. Until finally she confided, with beautiful finesse, and a secrecy that flattered Betty into ecstasies that she wanted to go to the Prom at Harmouth.

Delighted with having a hand in an adventure, Betty wrote to Twosome. And Twosome, after considerable bribing and counter-bribing, dug up a "blind date" for Hope for the Prom. A boy, wrote Twosome, named Tuck Hall, who was a sophomore like himself.

After accepting the invitation from her blind date, Hope sought Judy's confidence. There are friends in whom you can confide and feel safe with your secrets. There are other friends who do not even demand confidence. Judy refused to listen to why Hope wished her to lie. Judy waved aside explanations.

"You're old enough to know what you're doing, Hope. I'll help you to be a lady or a chump. Either way it doesn't matter. Poison or poison. And if you're being a chump, I'd just as well not know. What I don't know I can't talk about."

Gratefully Hope explained she was going somewhere for a weekend. And her family mustn't dream of her whereabouts or question her absence.

Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

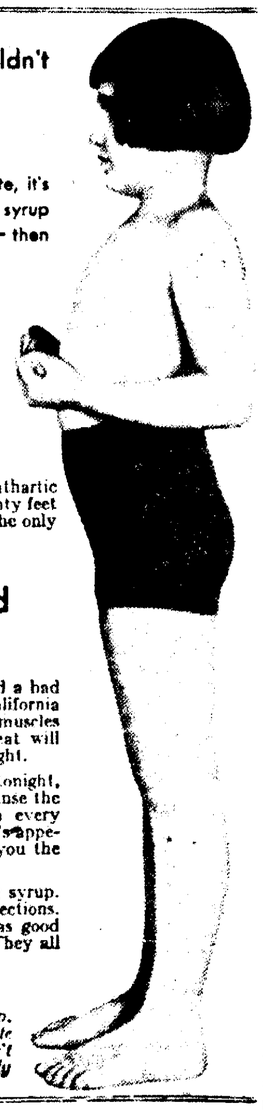
"Please Let Me Alone"

Out of sorts...disagreeable! Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped so many women whose nerves are frayed by those dreadful "monthly" headaches.

The little Girl who wouldn't

EAT

When a youngster has no appetite, it's probably due to stasis. A little fig syrup will soon correct this condition — then watch the child eat.



Nature knows best! Never coax a child to eat! Remove the cause of a youngster's poor appetite—get rid of stasis. Children who don't eat are sluggish. Not to correct this is inexcusable. It is so easy to do, if you will only use the "California treatment." Read what it is doing for listless children in every part of the country!

When appetite fails, tongue is coated white, eyes are a bilious yellow, don't give small children any constipating cathartic that drains the system and weakens twenty feet of tender bowels! California fig syrup is the only "medicine" they need!

Sluggishness ended in 2 Weeks!

That girl or boy with a furry tongue and a bad breath should not be dosed with salts! California fig syrup will gently stimulate the colon muscles—and the child you used to coax to eat will fairly devour his food, digest it, gain weight.

Try the California treatment! Begin tonight, with enough of the pure fig syrup to cleanse the colon thoroughly. Less tomorrow, then every other day, or twice a week until the child's appetite, digestion, weight, complexion, tell you the stasis is gone.

Be sure to get the real California fig syrup. Any druggist has it, all bottled, with directions. It's a natural, vegetable laxative. Just as good for babes of two years as boys of ten. They all love its taste!

NOTICE TO MOTHERS

There are imitations of California fig syrup, and those who would sell you some substitute even when a child's health is concerned. Don't ever take any bottle that is not plainly labeled CALIFORNIA.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

A Terrified Scream from the Bungalow Plays Havoc With Madge's Nerves.

As the sudden yelping sound came to my ears from the bungalow where Lee Chow and Hugh Grantland, together with my father, Harry and Ducky were interrogating the bound Chinese miscreants who had refused to answer Lee Chow's questions, I first burrowed deep into the bedclothing, pulling the sheet and coverlet over my head. Then, ashamed of my cowardice, I arose and hurried to the window that overlooked the bungalow.

But I could see nothing. They all must be in the inner room, I figured, and I strained my ears for a repetition of the sound. But it was something entirely different that I heard next, a soft fumbling at my door, and all my nervousness went into my voice as I shakily called, "Who's there?"

"It's I, Lil; let me in," and I ran to the door with eagerness. I had no desire to be longer alone upon this terrible night.

Lillian Explains

"Oh, Lillian! What is it? What are they doing?" I gasped when she came through the door. She shut and locked it in silence; then she spoke crisply.

"I thought so!" she said, with something in her voice that made me suddenly flush. "I might have known better than to leave you alone. What's the matter, now?"

"Did you hear?" I asked frankly.

"Yes, I heard," she returned, "and we'll probably hear more if we listen instead of going to sleep as our men asked us to do. The Lawd he knows they're trying their best to keep any unpleasantness from us."

"But, Lillian!" I said, amazed at her apparent unconcern. "They've built a fire in the grate over there, and——"

"Is that outside the law?" she asked sardonically. "Both those Chinks were shaking with chills before they went out of here. Lee Chow probably doesn't want his countrymen to get pneumonia before he sends them where they belong."

"Shaking with—chills—or terror?" I asked stridently, and she wheeled and looked at me.

"Sit down," she said sharply, "while I tell you the facts of life in words of one syllable where possible."

She drew a chair opposite mine after she had thrown a bathrobe round my shoulders, and bent toward me, her forefinger beating her palm in emphasis.

"As Dicky would tell you, you're letting your imagination work overtime on this thing," she began.

"I didn't imagine that scream," I said sullenly.

"No, you didn't, but you are trumping up some perfectly fantastic reasons for the sound. Now, please listen to me for an hour or two, will you?"

The corners of her mouth were quirked into a grin, and the tension of my nerves loosened.

"I'll try," I said demurely.

"There! that's better," she said briskly. "Of course, I know what you've got in your noodle, movie ideas of confessions wrung by torture, and all the rest of the bunk. Now, I don't deny that no doubt those two fiends over there and that's the word for 'em, nothing less—are getting a soupcon so slight as not to be worthy of the name—of the medicine they've administered many a time to such poor wrecks as that old chap in the library. They are also being frightened very realistically out of what senses they have. I'd like to be in a hidden corner, because I'll bet the proceedings are a mixture of college hazing and secret society rituals, flavored with the fine medieval touch of Lee Chow. Remember the timeworn stunt of the glowing poker end, the piece of ice, and the smell of burning cloth? It's given cannier lads than those two the willies."

Can't You Trust Them?

I suppose my face showed my incredulity, for she suddenly grinned knowingly.

"Yes, "I'll admit those lads might not be fooled very long by that stunt," she said. "But what I want to get over to you is this. Do you think that men like Dicky and Harry and the chief and Hugh and Lee Chow are going to do anything very terrifying? Can't you trust them to do no more than put into the black hearts of those rats the fear of their particular joss?"

"Oh! I know," I said, contrite at last. "I shouldn't doubt them. But it was all so——"

"And then some," she acquiesced. "I quite agree with you. And it will be more so before the night is over. The boys have their work cut out for them with those birds. But once they get out of them what Lee Chow wants, I fancy it will mean a chance for him and Hugh to rest and lead normal lives awhile.

Why They're Doing It

I did not want even Lillian to know how my pulses leaped at this though of a cessation of danger for Hugh, and I forced my voice to a casual inquiry.

"The thing they're concealing is so important, then?"

"It must be," she returned dryly, "or all our men wouldn't be over there cavorting like ring-tailed monkeys, as I'm shouting sure they're doing. But we'll know all about it in the morning—I trust. And now get into that bed—over at the back. I'm going to make sure you have no more waking nightmares."

She waited until I was in bed, then lay down beside me, and threw a protecting arm across my shoulders, the gesture she would have made to a frightened child.

"Now go to sleep," she commanded, and this time I obeyed her.

Harding Casualty List Mounts as Galion Clash Nears

MORRAL, CALEDONIA TO DECIDE COUNTY CAGE TITLE FRIDAY

THREE REGULARS NOT LIKELY TO BE READY FOR FRIDAY BATTLE

Presidents Face Difficult Obstacle in Meeting Fighting ing Galion Five.

With three men generally classed as regulars on the list of ailing, Harding High school continued preparations yesterday afternoon for the second clash of the season with the Galion Orangemen. The Presidents will meet the Galion crew Friday night on the Steam Shovel court in one of the regular weekly trio of games in the North Central Ohio league.

The Presidents have already defeated the Orangemen on a previous occasion at Galion by a score of 29-25, the victory coming as a result of a last period rally. The Orangemen are in last place in the league standings but despite the fact they will meet a tail-end combination this week, all is not rosy as the Presidents go through their daily practice drills.

Ling Not in Shape

Jack Ling, towering pivot man is still a doubtful starter for Friday night Jack practiced a short time yesterday but there is little indication that he will be jumping center when the teams line up Friday night. Bill Stark, Jack's understudy, who has been filling in while Ling is missing, was out of school the first day of this week with a cold and sore throat and is in poor condition now, although he may round into shape before Friday night. Fred Vestal, the third ailing regular, is reported threatened with an attack of appendicitis.

Aside from this three-man casualty list, Harding appears to be in condition for a gruelling grind with Galion.

Galion promises to put up a desperate battle against the Presidents, regardless of the fact the Harding team won the previous encounter. Coach Fred McClintock is drilling his charges hard this week in the hope of turning in an unexpected victory over the Men of Bohyer. A victory for Galion will give them a chance to climb from undisputed possession of the cellar position into a tie for last place as Bucyrus is but a game ahead and meets Shelby Friday in a battle that will see the Whippets favored to win.

Other Games

Other games this week will see Shelby playing Bucyrus on the Shelby court and Mansfield entertaining the Ashland quintet on the Tyger court.

The Galion game will be next the last home stand of the Presidents. Bohyer will hurl his charges against Mansfield next Tuesday night on the Shovel court and complete the league schedule against Shelby on Friday night on the Whippets court.

Not Satisfied

Above is pictured Malcom Campbell, the British speed king who is awaiting favorable conditions at Daytona Beach, Florida, before making an attempt to boost his former record. Campbell will begin trial spins as soon as possible and will probably make his assault on the record within a short time. He is using the same famous "Blue Bird" which carried him more than 230 miles an hour when he established the speed record last year.

TRACK STARS CLASH IN NEW YORK MEET

Gene Venzke Tops Field of Sprinters in Gotham Indoor Classic.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 17—Two record smashing performers, Gene Venzke and Leo Sexton, bid fair to give the home club the major share of honors in the annual New York Athletic club indoor track and field meet tonight.

Venzke tops a great field in the Baxter mile and is considered almost a sure bet to win. The question is whether he can better his own indoor mile mark of 4.11 1-5.

Sexton, who heaved a 16-pound shot for a world indoor record last Saturday, is another outstanding favorite with only Herman Brix, the big Californian, to challenge him.

If Venzke can't come ahead, another runner who wears the N. Y. A. C. colors is rated as second choice. He is Leo Lermond, who chased the Pottstown, Pa., youngster to his new record ten days ago.

Heading the list of "outsiders" is George Spitz, who apparently has not found his high jumping "ceiling."

Emmett Toppino of Loyola university, New Orleans, is favorite among a collection of star sprinters which includes George Simpson former Ohio State flash, and Ira Singer, national indoor champion.

DIVISION CHAMPIONS TO CLASH ON COURT OF STAR AUDITORIUM

Waldo, Meeker; Kirkpatrick, LaRue Also Scheduled In Triple Bill.

Morral and Caledonia High school basketball teams, winners of their respective divisions of the Marion county cage league, will settle the question of county supremacy Friday night of this week when they clash on the court of The Star auditorium. Their conflict will be one of three games which will match the six leading teams of the rural loops. The Friday night tournament which matches the three leading teams of each division takes the place of the regular county tournaments which are annually staged by practically all other counties in the state.

While Morral and Caledonia are battling for first and second places in the county, Waldo and Meeker will be fighting it out for possession of third place in the loop. The third clash will pit Kirkpatrick against LaRue in a game that will decide little except the right to claim fifth and sixth places in the county standings.

Morral will be battling for the second year in succession to annex the county championship. Last season the red and black squad crashed through the division race to the title and then lost out in the inter-division battle to Kirkpatrick, winners of the East side crown. Morral went through this season with but one defeat to take the title the second time.

Caledonia, winner of the East half crown, also went through the season just closed with but one setback. Waldo turned in a one-point victory over the league champions in their first meeting of the season. It is the first time since 1927 that Caledonia has had a division championship team. Not since 1923 has the blue and white been able to crash through for a county championship.

The first game Friday night will match LaRue, third place team of the Western division of the county, with Kirkpatrick, third place team of the Eastern division. This clash is scheduled to get under way at 7:30 p. m. The second go will see Meeker of the West half and Waldo of the East side battling it out for third place. The championship clash will be the final one on the program and will probably start about 9:30 p. m.

Jerry Katherman of Columbus has been engaged to referee the games.

VOLLEYBALL MATCH ON CARD THURSDAY

The Mansfield and Marion Y. M. C. A. volleyball teams will meet at 8 p. m. Thursday on the Marion Y. court. A match between the noon business men's club and the evening business men's club will precede the inter-city games. No admission is charged and the public is invited to attend.

The Marion Y team is scheduled to play Tiffin on Thursday, Feb. 26.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

Just about any day, I expect to be walking along one of our avenues and hear the sound of the willow stick crashing into a horsehide sphere and at the same time hear some kid yell: It's a homer, get going, Mike! Some of the rail birds may think I'm a bit balmy for running off about baseball at this early date but just the same, baseball, all right then, recreation baseball, will be given the preliminary shove tonight towards what is expected to be the biggest season in the history of the game here.

The city recreation ball commission will convene tonight at the Y for the first session since the closing of the season last fall. Preliminary plans will be made for the annual spring banquet early in March at which time four new commission members will be named to take the places of the quartet whose terms expire this spring.

It won't be long now. Prosperity and softball are just around the corner. Batter up!

Harding High school's basketball team may or may not be able to lay claim to the court championship of the North Central Ohio league when the season comes to an end in a short time but there is one title to which the Presidents can lay claim without much danger of raising a dispute.

Almost since the start of the season the Red and Black squad has been beset by difficulties. The Presidents got off to a flying start, taking the first four games against scholastic competition and looking like a better team in each game. Then things began to happen.

First Carol Caris, brilliant forward, was declared ineligible. In the same week, Billie Here, Caris' running mate at forward, suffered a severe injury to his leg and was practically useless for two weeks. Here had scarcely gotten back into good condition again than Jack Ling, towering center, injured an ankle and is now warming the bench for the second week.

When Ling left the lineup it tossed the job of jumping center on Bill Stark. And now ladies and gentlemen Stark may be unable to play against Galion this week. At the rate things are traveling at present, I figure we can count on using one or more of the coaches in the lineup in the first tournament game at Delaware.

Perhaps someone wouldn't mind explaining to me the cause of so many basketball players in the city Sunday school league shooting at the wrong basket. For the third time last night this little act took place on the Y court and for the first time the error resulted in two points for the opposing team.

Pat Maloney of Central Christian started it early in the season. He missed although that can't be blamed on him. He tried. Then Carol Caris of the same team tried it. He didn't make it either. But last night Chamberlain of Forest Lawn succeeded where two others failed and turned in two points for Epworth M. E. There's one for some amateur sleuth to figure out.

LEADERS FAVORED IN GOLF TOURNEY

By The Associated Press

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 17—Four of America's leading woman golfers today were favored to enter the semi-finals in the Florida Women's golf championship.

In the first bracket, Miss Edith Quier of Reading, Pa., medalist, was matched against Miss Grace Amory of Palm Beach while Miss Maureen Orcutt, former eastern and metropolitan champion met Mrs. W. M. Ferris Jr., of Newton, Mass. Both Miss Quier and Miss Orcutt were favored to advance.

Miss Helen Hicks, national champion, was paired with Miss Lillian Zech of Niles, O., and Mrs. H. D. Sterrett of Hutchinson, Kans., with Mrs. C. R. Harbaugh of Cleveland in the lower bracket. Miss Hicks and Mrs. Sterrett were expected to win.

Reformed To Play.

The senior and intermediate basketball teams of First Reformed church will meet the First Reformed teams of Bucyrus Thursday night on the Bucyrus court in a pair of inter-city church league games. The Marion Reformed teams are among the leaders of the league.

CHRISTIANS DEFEAT U. B. COMBINE, 32-30

Epworth Trips Forest Lawn 37-23 To Cause Triple Tie in Church League.

Central Christian and Epworth M. E. basketball teams moved into a deadlock with Calvary Evangelical last night for the leadership of the Marion Sunday school court league. All three teams are holding a percentage of 875 with one game each left to play. One of the three leaders is certain to be removed next Tuesday when the Methodists and Christians get together in the final game of the season. A possibility exists for a two-way tie for the championship as a Calvary victory over Trinity Baptist Friday night of this week will give Calvary a tie for the title with the winner of the Epworth-Christian fray.

Central Christian defeated United Brethren last night but had a hard time doing it, taking only a two-point decision from the tail-end combine. The final score was 32-30. Epworth took all of the first two period to get going but opened up in the second half and drubbed Forest Lawn to the tune of a 37-23 score. In the third game, First Presbyterians hopped on the St. Mary's Irish and grabbed a 23-16 victory in a rough and tumble battle.

Forest Lawn held a lead over Epworth all through the first two periods. As the second half got under way a flurry of scoring gave Epworth a one point lead and then Chamberlain, Forest Lawn guard, pulled a "Roy Riegels" and put Epworth in a three-point lead that was never lost. Chamberlain grabbed the ball from the center of a pack near the Epworth goal, turned around and dropped in two points for the Methodists.

United Brethren stayed out in front of Central Christian for three periods of the game but the Christians pulled a rally in the last frame that pulled the issue out of the fire and gave them a 32-30 victory. Carol Caris, former Harding High school star, turned in a good game for the Christians. Dick Tuttle led the scoring for the United Brethren with 10 points.

St. Mary's trailed the First Presbyterians all of the way but put up a desperate battle against the champions of last season. Fouls were numerous throughout the game, Roush of the Presbyterians scored seven markers to top the point list.

In a preliminary game the Agosta Athletics won from Agosta High school, 26-22. Ferrin of the high school was high scorer with 14 points.

Miracle Man

Here is probably the most remarkable golfer in America, if not in the entire world. He is Tommy McAuliffe, of Los Angeles, who, though armless, shot the difficult Annandale Country Club course in 94. McAuliffe, a graduate of Michigan State University with a B. S. in agriculture, caddied for Walter Hagen in 1914 when he won his first major championship. He has also caddied for Bobby Jones.

GIVES UP RING TO ENTER VAUDEVILLE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 17—Earl Mastro, little Chicago Italian, who is regarded as the outstanding contender for the world featherweight title, has given up his ring career for one in vaudeville.

Mastro, only 22 years old and a remarkably clever boxer, left today for Springfield, O., to make his first appearance in a song and dance act with his wife as partner.

Following his failure to take the featherweight title from Bat Battalino last November, Mastro accepted no more offers for bouts, even refusing another chance at Battalino. During his short career he has beaten almost every star in his class, including Bud Taylor, Fidel La Barba and Eddie Shea.

Intermediate Scores.

Calvary Evangelical Intermediate league basketball team turned in a one-sided 55-14 victory last night over Fite Memorial Baptists. Central Christians stopped a long winning streak of St. Mary's by winning 19-7, holding the Irish scoreless in the first two periods.

First Reformed won their game from the Presbyterians by a forfeit.

Gibson, Three Pitchers Leave Tonight for Spring Training Site.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 17—Just three pitchers will compose the squad Manager George Gibson of the Pittsburgh Pirates, will have in tow when he starts for the spring training camp at Pasco Robles, Cal., tonight.

But by the time the party lands in the west Sunday, most of the batterymen and a few others will be on hand. Some Bucs will join Gibby in Chicago, and others in Kansas City.

Glenn Spencer will be the only veteran to leave Pittsburgh tonight. Bill Swift recently obtained from the Kansas City Blues, and Lawrence Bishop, late of Tulsa, are two rookies who will go along.

Out on the coast, two dissatisfied pitchers, Larry French and Remy Kremer, are awaiting arrival of Gibson to adjust differences in contracts.

Dempsey Signs.

By The Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 17—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion has signed for a four-round bout with Frankie Wine of Butte, Mont., here next Tuesday night, and will address the Kentucky legislature at Frankfort the next day. Ex-Pirate Foes Now Help Pilot Run Buccaneers

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—Two old baseball warriors who have done a lot in their time to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates' pennant aspirations will do all they can this coming summer to win the flag for Forbes Field.

Otis Crandall, one-time star pitcher, and Grover Hartley, veteran catcher, were among the Pirates' greatest foes not so many years ago.

Both wore New York Giants uniforms in the days when the appearance of the McGrawmen in Pittsburgh was the signal for battling both on and off the ball field.

To Coach Hurlers

Now these two, graying about the temples, but rich in the knowledge of the game, are prominent figures in the strategy aboard the Pirate brig.

George Gibson, another old timer, who has come back to Pittsburgh to pilot the Dreyfuss ship, looks to his pitching staff, above all else to pull the Bucs up higher in the National league standing.

Himself recognized as one of the smartest catchers of all time, Gibby pins his faith in the old New York battery to teach his youngsters and to keep his staff in line.

Youngsters Look Good

With Brame, Meine, French, Spencer, Kremer and a flock of promising young hurlers on his roster, Gibson believes that Crandall and Hartley will be able to build his staff into one of the finest in the league.

"I look for all around improvement," Gibson told friends here recently. "Both the infield and the outfield should be stronger. But watch my pitching this year. If all goes well, I think our staff will round into one of the finest and one that will be able to take the team up among the contenders."

Stagg Thinks Changes in Rules Will Aid Football

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 17—Amos Alonzo Stagg Sr., dean of the country's football coaches, believes the changes in the playing code will take nothing from the game from the spectators' viewpoint, and will mean much to coaches and players.

Stagg, who will coach his forty-first University of Chicago squad next fall, agrees that the alterations are the most constructive since 1906, and that the benefits will soon become evident.

Objections against some of the changes, particularly those barring the flying block and tackling, will he believes, be forgotten when they are fully understood.

"I happened to be chairman of the sub-committee which altered the blocking and tackling rules," he said, "and we acted after studying the reports of investigations of Fielding Yost (of Michigan) and Parke Davis. We did not mean that a player cannot leave his feet in blocking and tackling, but decided to restrict the action to the instant he makes contact with the ball-carrier, or the man he is attempting to block. The committee wished only to cut out catapulting the body through the air and its attendant danger.

"Some criticism has been made against the rule making the ball automatically dead when any part of the ball carrier's body other than his feet or hands touches the ground, while in the grasp of an opponent. It is clear that this will eliminate piling up, which has been the cause of serious or even fatal injury. This rule will not however, affect a man holding the ball for a place kick, an exception having been made to cover this point.

The ruling against the use of the hands by a defensive lineman on the head, face or neck of an opponent, will do more than any other to promote better feeling between players, Coach Stagg holds.

"This rule was designed to control play at the scrimmage line where personal combat is at its highest and foul tactics are most frequently employed and where personal bitterness and antagonism develop. The rule, in my judgment, will do more toward promoting fine feeling between combatting teams, than any other enacted. The committee intends that this rule be strictly enforced.

"There has been little criticism directed against the kickoff rule, and I believe it will be responsible for some very interesting maneuvering, while removing most of the chances for injury."

Marquette university will lose only three football letter men by the three-year rule this spring. Ten were lost through eligibility in the 1931 season.

DROP FOLLOWS EARLY GAIN

Stock Shares Decline in Afternoon: Selling in Moderate Volume.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—The stock market was unable to break out of its ordinary price range on the exchange today, just as it failed to break through on the downside a day ago.

The market had an interval of strength in the morning, but eased off at midday. Payment of the quarterly dividend of $2.25 by American Telephone had been widely anticipated, and brought out more profit-taking than buying.

Losses in principal shares in the afternoon ranged from 1 to 3 points, with American Telephone and some of the maximum issues off a point or two.

Selling, however, was in moderate volume. There were temporary advances of 1 to 2 points during the morning.

A distinct undertone of bullishness was apparent in brokerage quarters, but Wall street generally seemed to feel that overenthusiastic bidding up of the market at this stage would be unwise. Some important bankers felt that a fairly stable market around current or moderately higher levels would be about the best that could be expected pending conclusive signs of a turn for the better in general business conditions.

The regular quarterly dividend of $2.25 by American telephone had apparently been fully discounted by that stock's sharp rise in recent sessions, which had apparently eliminated much of the short interest. The demand for stocks in the loan crowd, brokers said still indicated a fair-sized short interest in the general market, but some felt that a fresh building up of the short position would be necessary to restore the market to a strong technical position.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES SLUMP

Weakness of Liverpool Quotations Has Bearish Effect on Values.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 17—Downturns here in grain prices early today accompanied relative weakness of the Liverpool wheat market. Liverpool reported prospects of enlarged shipments of wheat from Argentina, and failed to respond fully to yesterday's advance on this side of the Atlantic. Opening unchanged to ½ lower, Chicago wheat futures afterward receded all around, corn started at ⅛-¼ set back and subsequently sagged further.

Wheat traders showed a decided inclination at times to take their cue from the course of securities. Early declines in stock market values were a noticeable transient bearish factor as to wheat standing orders however to May wheat at 61½ tended to check the reaction, and rallies ensued which lifted wheat to above yesterday's finish.

Recovering from downturns in wheat market were simultaneous with a fresh advance of securities at New York. Wheat fluctuated rapidly at this stage, jumping a cent a bushel in a few minutes. The rise from early low figures went hand in hand with widespread renewal of reports about "favorable" official announcements expected from Washington. Corn and oats swayed with wheat.

Provisions were responsive to firmness of hog values.
